

Wattman Trackless Electric Trains

Here's our customers say about Wattman trains...

Washington Commons Mall
Karen Flood, Marketing Director
Development Associates

Green Bay, Wisconsin

"Wattman's Mini Express train came to Green Bay on Labor Day 2003, by Christmas over 17,000 families and children had enjoyed a ride around the Washington Commons. The popularity of this train, we renamed the Bumblebee Express, has not waned as the months have passed. People now know us as – the mall with the train!"

Action Attractions
(rental company)

Ted Derloshon, Owner, Atlanta, GA
Owner of two Wattman Mini Express trains.

"Being the owner of many various items of rental attractions, I can say that Wattman's trains are the only long-lasting, never-ending financial security equipment out there." Derloshon is proud to say he could live only on the rental of his two Wattman trains.

Buttonwood Park Zoo
David Prentiss, Executive Director
New Bedford, MA

" In the first month we have had 6,000 Mini Express riders. At $2.00 a ticket, it generated $12,000.00. With 24,000 visitors per month during our peak season, the Mini Express generates $0.50 per visitor. Being a non-profit organization and a small zoo, I must admit that the money we make with the train is beyond what I had initially expected."
